

Neonatal Phenylalanine

SKU: MP41073

Categories: Laboratory Infrastructure

Short Description:

Labsystems Diagnostics' Neonatal Phenylalanine is a chemical method, with fluorometric detection, for quantitative determination of phenylalanine from blood specimens dried on filter paper, intended for newborn screening for phenylketonuria (PKU).

Description

Labsystems Diagnostics' Neonatal Phenylalanine is a chemical method, with fluorometric detection, for quantitative determination of phenylalanine from blood specimens dried on filter paper, intended for newborn screening for phenylketonuria (PKU). Benefits

- Simple and easy to perform
- Excellent analytical sensitivity
- Extensive experiences from worldwide customers
- Calibrated against the latest international references